The Durability of Plexipave is second to none. Ultraviolet degradation, severe weather and harsh climate are no match for this all-weather surface. Applied on asphalt or concrete, the Plexipave system is a 100% acrylic surface, which will maintain color, ball bounce and a consistent speed of play for years of long lasting service.

Development of the Plexipave system is vital to its continued success as the world's most demanded acrylic tennis surface. Plexipave Area Managers work closely with the laboratory chemists monitoring and evaluating courts around the world. Whether it is testing the latest surfacing technology or the final inspection of a finished court, the outcome is a surfacing system that consistently outperforms the competition.

DEVELOPMENT

...in the world of sports, the

and Play...

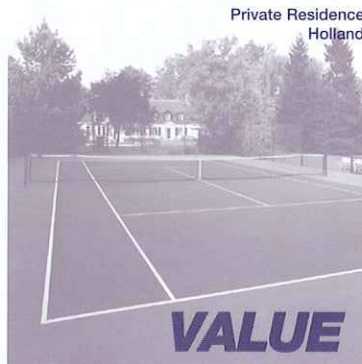

Playability is an important factor in the construction of any court. Stronger players, faster serves and advances in equipment have contributed to the evolution of the game. Facility managers, coaches and players agree, it has become more important to play on surfaces that fit all playing styles and provide accurate and predictable ball bounce. Each Plexipave system has been rated by the International Tennis Federation (ITF) and is accepted for all levels of international competition.

The Colors of Plexipave courts have significantly changed over the years. In addition to custom mixed colors, alternatives to the popular green include US Open Blue™, Pro-Purple, or California Red. These beautiful, fade resistant colors can compliment surrounding architecture or natural settings, making the court an important element of design.

SERVICE

The Value of Plexipave is determined by its durability and playability. Court installations range from a tournament or resort complex to a small municipal park or residential installation; there are several Plexipave systems available to meet the needs and budget of each facility. The long lasting service and value that is maintained throughout the life of the surface reflects the affordability of a Plexipave court.

Service during and after your court is installed is just as important as the court surface itself. From your customer service team to the global network of authorized applicators, Plexipave puts the highest priority on the support we offer customers. Working with your Plexipave Area Manager and authorized applicator can assure you of correct court selection, quality installation and the finest after sale service available.
